

Evofem Biosciences Successfully Amends S.P.A. with Institutional Investor

-- Investor withdraws March 2023 Notice of Default --

-- Notes are no longer convertible to shares of common stock, removing potential dilution from the previously-reserved over 240 million shares of common stock --

-- Evofem may repurchase Notes within five years for as little as $14 million and no more than $25 million, instead of the $97.5 million outstanding balance --

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 11, 2023 /PRNewswire/ -- Evofem Biosciences, Inc. (OTCQB: EVFM) (Evofem or the "Company") today announced it has successfully negotiated and entered into a fourth amendment (the "Fourth Amendment") to its Securities Purchase and Security Agreement dated April 2020, as amended (the "2020 S.P.A."), with a U.S.-based, healthcare-focused institutional investor (the "Investor"), under which the Investor purchased $25 million of convertible senior secured promissory notes (the "Notes") from Evofem. Most notably, in the Fourth Amendment, the Investor withdraws and waives the March 2023 Event of Default and allows for the Company to repurchase the Notes for no more than $25 million.

"We deeply appreciate that the Investor has worked with us to amend the 2020 S.P.A. in a way that respects their initial investment while dramatically strengthening our financial position, facilitating execution of our growth strategy, and positioning Evofem for future success," said Sandra Pelletier, CEO of Evofem Biosciences.

Under the Fourth Amendment, Evofem may repurchase the Notes for as little as $14 million and no more than $25 million, depending on timing of the repurchase within the stated five-year time frame. Evofem will pay the Investor $1 million by October 1, 2023, which will be applied towards the eventual Note repurchase price. Furthermore, for five years or until the date of repurchase, whichever is earlier, Evofem will pay the Investor a low single-digit percentage of its global net product sales. These payments will also count towards and reduce the ultimate Note repurchase price.

A key benefit of the Fourth Amendment is the positive impact to Evofem's capital structure. Because the Notes are no longer convertible into shares of Evofem's common stock, the Company will no longer need to reserve shares of common stock to provide for their potential conversion. The current balance will accrue interest and remain in the footnotes to Evofem's financial tables until the Company has repurchased the debt. The repayment is expected to be no more than $25 million instead of the approximately $97.5 million principal amount and accrued interest as of September 8, 2023.

The Investor continues to hold warrants to purchase shares of Evofem's common stock, and the Company will continue to reserve from its authorized and unissued common stock enough shares to provide for the issuance of warrant shares upon the exercise of these warrants.
